Independent Survey Highly Rates the Grove Medical Centre

The Grove Medical Centre used the Improving Practice Questionnaire (IPQ) to independently assess its rating for patient satisfaction. The IPQ is a reliable and sensitive tool accurately measuring patient satisfaction in designated areas and is sensitive to change. The report issued in June gives the results of 392 patients of the Medical Centre who were surveyed after a visit to the practice to see a GP face to face.

Mrs. Alex Kimber – Managing Partner of the Grove Medical Centre said "I'm really pleased with our excellent results and to see that we are in the top quartile for all practices of our size, and then all bar one (telephone access) across all practices. Even then we're still way above the mean. The comments are interesting and show a variety of opinions, mostly good. The constructive criticism is fair and we always look to be able to improve where we can. We have changed our telephone answering message and increased the number of staff working on the telephone at peak times, as a result of these comments. I'd like to thank all the patients who spared the time to take part."

Sherborne Town Council ~ Wellbeing Committee

Sherborne Town Council has a new Wellbeing Committee. The inaugural meeting, with councillors was held at the Manor House, Newland on the 6th.June. Roger Marsh, Chair of the Grove Patient Participation Group has joined the committee as Health Representative along with representatives from the Gryphon School, Police, Rendezvous Young Peoples Support Facility, Sherborne Area Youth & Community Centre, and a Community Hub Advisor. Among other subjects, the Committee that meets quarterly, discussed issues related to the health and wellbeing of the younger people within our community and the work already conducted by the Church of England Salisbury Diocese Community Hub Project who partner with key people in the community, along with both church and school leaders.

A View from the Waiting Room

Can we heal ourselves?

Years ago when I was an eager young student nurse we had our very first ... and to me the most memorable ... medical lecture. It was from a warm hearted doctor who we grew over the years to know and love. He had been assigned the care of the entire three year student body, approximately 300 young women, all living in nurse's quarters with the minefield of problems this presented. He talked about how our bodies have an amazing natural capacity to heal themselves. They change and regenerate throughout our lives. He said that despite the huge advances in medical knowledge, most aches and pains get better all by themselves, sometimes with just a little medical help to speed things up. We learned that cells can repair themselves when they become unhealthy. A fever helps the body to fight infection. Intruders like toxins, viruses and bacteria are dealt with in the first instance by our immune system. We were riveted.

I have often thought back to the content of that first lecture. Our bodies are remarkable. They try their best to fix things. Of course there are huge exceptions, and advanced years do indeed get in the way ... the idea is not much help to an ageing pensioner with multiple medical issues. But looking back I can see that often our house doctor was spot on. The tinnitus ... noise in my ears ... that drove me to distraction for many months ... and suddenly vanished. The persistent groin pain, what was that? And a nasty crick of the neck which caused a sleepless night pacing the floor, head at a crazy angle. Two days and some pain relief later and it had vanished. There is comfort in having a mental image where, after a malfunction or injury, our cells rush to heal the damage. Quite often it's hard to know when to see the doctor, though most people are well aware of serious symptoms . But sometimes spontaneously, or more often with just a little medical assistance, the pain that seemed so driving our lives will fade Into a distant memory. I like to visualise an army of lymphocytes ... our white blood cell infection fighters ... mobilising to go to battle on my behalf ... and always on my side! It is true, and very reassuring.

What is social prescribing?

Social Prescribing Works

Social prescribing is designed to support patients with a wide range of social, emotional or practical needs., Many programmes focus on improving mental health and physical wellbeing. Those who benefit from social prescribing include patients with complex health conditions, who are socially isolated and those with multiple long-term conditions. The poster below illustrates a simple guide to the range of services available.

Within the Sherborne Area PCN, (The Grove, The Apples and Yetminster Health Centre), there are three Social Prescribers who work alongside our health professionals. Their work enables people to have more control over their lives, develop skills and give their time to others, through involvement in community groups.

Social prescribing involves a range of services typically provided by voluntary and community sector organisations. Examples include volunteering, arts activities, group learning, gardening, befriending, cookery, healthy eating advice and a range of sports. Not forgetting our military veterans, NHS Dorset has a specialist social prescriber in a new personalised care approach for those veterans who have more specialist needs.

Social prescribing leads to a range of positive health and wellbeing outcomes. Studies point to improvements in quality of life and emotional wellbeing, mental and general wellbeing, and levels of depression and anxiety

HE's DONE IT!!!

The amazing machine that is Dr Matt Phelan has completed the EPIC DECA challenge. 10 Iron Man triathlons in 10 days!

When asked why he did it... Matt responded

"I set myself a goal that I have always wanted to do, - but never had the moment, excuse or motivation to do it.

"The original plan 3 years ago was to do what is known as the Epic 5 - 5 Ironman, in 5 days on 5 Hawaiian islands, which I thought was impossible, and I had to mentally wrap my head round that challenge. However, due to the enforced postponements, because of multiple pandemics, I convinced myself that I should extend it to the Deca — 10 Days — 10 iron man triathlons in 10 days.

"With the support of my amazing crew, and inspired by all your messages and pledges to do something now to improve your own health and well-being however big or small. I finished day 10. I could not be more elated (if a little tired!)."

The physical and mental challenge to complete this is phenomenal. Matt has swum 24 miles, cycled 1120 miles and ran 266 miles. That's 1410 miles in ten days! Awesome! Don't think any of us can comprehend just how hard this was.

What an inspiration you are! Congratulations! We're all exceedingly proud of you!
